New York-based firm and FilzFelt collaborator, Architecture Research Office believes curiosity can be the basis for architectural practice. The firm's diverse portfolio, spanning architecture and urban design, consistently exemplifies an effort to achieve the greatest aesthetic impact while using the fewest natural resources, and its approach to designing new offices in Brooklyn does just the same.

The Architecture Research Office product collections for FilzFelt combine the natural beauty of wool felt with repetition and pattern to create acoustic products that are elegant and easy to install. Throughout the firm's downtown Brooklyn office, a range of ARO products play up their love for both of these as ARO Plank and ARO Shingle 4 line the walls of shared conference rooms and workspaces. At the same time, visitors are greeted with playful patterning overhead in ARO Grid 1.
