When designing the workspaces for Airbnb's offices in Santa Clara, Studio G Architects found that 100% Wool Design Felt was the perfect material for creating the same soft and welcoming atmosphere as the homes and abodes they market around the world.

In a towering, two-story common space, the curved design of ARO Plank 1 echoes the curved walls of the seating area, while the vertical lines of the pattern draw the eye up and emphasize the height of the space. The eye-catching installation features two statement walls in 575 Salbei, a bright and uplifting color that pairs perfectly with the space's light and airy atmosphere.

In a nearby open-space dining room, ARO Plank 2 in 483 Adria provides a soft and calming backdrop for a trio of private booths and creates a cozy space for quiet chats while helping turn the sound down in the expansive space.
