For the team at X-Design, a Canadian interior design and project management firm, re-imagining what built spaces can do and how people can thrive within them is core to their mission – an approach exemplified at the offices at Cubert. ARO Plank 1 lines the walls of private offices and meeting rooms to modernize existing office spaces to reflect the company culture. Floating installations in bright pops of saturated color and full wall installations in subtle, relaxing colorways bring visual interest around the office while helping to lower the volume in collaborative spaces.
