At its Seattle office, rental housing company Greystar teamed up with Elizabeth Stuart Design to create a modern and progressive interior that reflects the dynamic nature of Greystar's growing business. A sliding set of Grid Hanging Panels lines a communal kitchen and dining area to offer open or private options in a neutral light grey that complements the room's other natural materials. In the open office, workstations are set to the backdrop of Hanging Panels of the same design that deliver a punch of color in a rusty orange.
