For this business software company's SoCal Innovation Center, the building balances a co-working environment open to the public with an R&D center for the company. In this space where the choice of where to work is up the user, on-demand workspaces include semiprivate built-in banquettes with warm wood complimented by Chevron Block in a dynamic pattern of greys and not-so-subtle pops of yellow. Block provides graphic patterning that packs a punch all the while providing the sound-softening needed in these workspaces without walls.
