In a new 56,000-square-foot building on the site of Tyson Food's original headquarters, wood reclaimed from the original building pairs with other natural materials including wool felt. While natural materials create warmth and texture, collaboration is the name of the game in a space that is high on technology but low on hierarchy. In a centralized dine-in hub, Akustika 25 Baffles in a deep grey visually define a touch down space while providing maximum sound absorption for more concentrated work. And to provide visual privacy between work areas, Hex Hanging Panels in a deep red add bold color, texture, and interesting patterning and slide on Hanging Panel Track System in custom black.
