Custom floor coverings were CNC cut and hand-stitched for this residence that occupies three floors of a historic South End row house in Boston. The designer brightened up a long hallway with a CNC cut felt floor runner that features a pattern of repeating squares down one side of its length in 150 Weiß. In other areas, brightly colored floor coverings in 102 Kirsche feature hand-stitched details. The owner's extensive art collection inspired the bold colors and playful patterns within the space while keeping a sophisticated simplicity to showcase the historic details of the residence.
